

CENTRE FOR SCIENCE STUDIES

RESEARCH COLLOQUIA 2023

Wednesday, 13 September 2023, 14.15- 15.45

CSS-Pitch

Programme at www.css.au.dk

Wednesday, 27 September 2022, 14.15-15.45

Dirk Schlimm, McGill University

What can we learn by studying mathematical notations?

Wednesday, 11 October 2023, 14.15-15.45

Robert Friedman, University of Oslo

Einstein's Nobel Prize: The Scandal Then and Now, and Why it Matters

Wednesday, 25 October 2023, 14.15-15.45

Lucilla Losi, Department of Political Sciences, AU

Relying on experts, disliking participation, or lacking representation? Public engagement with science and socio-economic status

Wednesday, 8 November 2023, 14.15-15.45

Lindsay Weinberg, AIAS & Purdue University

What Can the Smart City Teach Us About the Smart Campus?

Wednesday, 22 November 2022, 14.15-15.45

Keith Harris, University of Bochum

Social Evidence Tampering and the Epistemic Significance of Consensus

Wednesday, 6 December 2023, 14.15-15.45

Rune Nyrup, CSS

The Trouble with 'Trustworthy AI' (and Why We Need It)

All colloquia will take place in Aud G1 (1532-116) at the Department of Mathematics, AU.

Coffee and cake will be served 15 mins before the colloquium start. Each talk will be 45 mins plus

Q&A. There will be a break in between. Find out more about the Centre for Science Studies at <http://css.au.dk>.

AARHUS
UNIVERSITY

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS